Mission Statement

The mission of the Kansas Curricular Standards for Theatre is to establish the art of theatre as essential to education.

Vision Statement

The vision for theatre education is to develop the capacity for creative emotional expression; to expand physical, improvisational, and artistic skills; and to enrich the quality of student lives.

The Kansas Curricular Standards for Theatre provide a framework for developing theatre curriculum and evaluating student progress.

Introduction

This document's revisions are based on both the 2004 Kansas Curricular Standards for Theatre and the revised National Theatre Standards. These standards are meant to guide, not dictate, the structure and development of theatre programs in Kansas schools. They have been carefully revised and studied by a team of experienced drama teachers and theatre directors. See Acknowledgements.

In order to align more closely with College and Career Ready Standards, the following format was used. It is a style based on Grant Wiggins and Jay McTighe's Understanding by Design (McTighe, Jay and Wiggins, Grant Understanding by Design, 1998). Understanding by Design is a curriculum design model focused on "teaching for understanding". The emphasis of Understanding by Design is on "backward design", the practice of looking at the outcomes in order to design curriculum units, performance assessments, and classroom instruction.

In light of this model, we began by identifying four (4) processes addressed through theatre education and components for each process. Within these standards, definitions are included for each component. In the template, each process is identified by a different color. Component changes are designated by the return of the process color. Multiple Enduring Understandings (EUs) and Essential Questions (EQs) are written for each component. This is followed by an Anchor Standard to summarize each component. Performance Standards are specific for each grade band addressing each EU and aligning with both the EUs and EQs. This style of writing standards has also been followed in the designing and revising of the National Theatre Standards.

Here is an explanation of EUs and EQs. The Enduring Understand is what all students should obtain from an education, specifically understandings that can be learned through an experience in theatre education and will endure with them throughout the rest of their lives. The Essential Questions are questions that students should be able to answer regarding that EU. They can be questions teachers ask to check if the student has learned that understanding through their instruction and questions teachers use to guide development of their own guiding questions.

Anchor Standards are overarching and Performance Standards are more specific. You might think of the Anchor Standards as our present standards and the Performance Standards as similar to what we presently call benchmarks. They are grade band evidence of the Enduring Understanding. They show change and growth over time, combining action and content and are measurable.

These entities reflect the very nature of this art form, as theatre integrates all the arts and other academic disciplines. Not only does a student learn about the art of theatre, the student applies knowledge from all other disciplines through theatre. Furthermore, in order to create theatre, a student must be able to use all of the workplace competencies. As a result, theatre education that is aligned with the aspects addressed through these enduring understanding and standards enhances and enriches learning and cognitive development at all levels.

Theatre is the only art form that focuses on the symbolic representation of human behavior in action. It allows 21st Century learners to engage holistically; physically, mentally, emotionally, socially, and aesthetically. Of all the art forms, theatre is the most human because its purpose and mode of expression allow it to closely approximate daily life.

Glossary

Acting Area - The area on the stage that can be seen by the audience where the action of the play takes place.

Ad lib - To make up lines as you go along.

Aesthetics - The branch of philosophy that deals with theories of art and beauty.

Analyze/Analysis To examine in detail the parts in relationship to the whole.

Articulation - The shaping of sounds by a speaker's lips, teeth, tongue, and hard and soft palates.

Aside - Actor's words heard by the audience but supposedly not heard by the other actors.

Audience - One or more persons who observe actors in a scene or play.

Audition - Occurs before rehearsals begin; a time when actors, who would like to be in the play, "try out".

Backdrop - Material often painted to resemble a location; hangs on the batten or pipe in the back part of the stage.

Batten - A pipe or grid from which scenery, lighting, and curtains are hung.

Blocking - The placement and movement of actors on a stage with respect to each other and the playing space.

Business - Action used to fill time or motivate a movement.

Cast - The actors in a play.

Center stage - The area directly in the middle of the stage.

Characterization - The process of exploring the physical, social, and psychological aspects of a role.

Climax - The point from which the major conflict can go no further without bringing about a resolution; the highest point of dramatic tension.

Communication - Verbal or nonverbal interaction between persons to share meaning.

Company - The cast, director, and others working on the play.

Concentration - The ability to focus and maintain attention upon an object, image, idea, action, or experience while excluding distracting factors.

Concept, directoria - I A vision that the director develops about the meaning and significance of a play. The test of the validity of the director's concept is that degree to which it clarifies the meaning and enhances the power of the text.

Concept, design - The designer's interpretation of the director's vision in scenery, properties, lighting, sound, costumes, and makeup.
Scenographic design - concepts should take into account the limitations of a given stage, the workability of a given solution, and the suggestions of the playwright.

Conflict/Resolution - A problem encountered by a character and the means used by that character to resolve the problem.

Costume - An actor's stage clothing.

Crew Chief - Supervisor of production running crew.

Critique - Evaluations and suggestions.

Cross - To move onstage from one location to another.

Cue - The line or action that triggers another line or action.

Design - The artistic plan which gives shape and substance to the play in visual and auditory terms.

Dialogue - Words spoken by the characters in a play to communicate their thoughts, feelings, and actions.

Diction - The choice that an actor makes in word forms and sounds regarding inflections, rhythms, tempos, intonations, and especially pronunciations; those elements that give character to his or her words as distinct from audibility.

Director - The person who unifies an entire production, from the basic interpretation of the text through all the acting and technical phases, up to the time of performance.

Director's Notebook - A complete collection of all information to direct a production.

Downstage - The area on the stage closest to the audience.

Drama - A piece of writing intended for stage presentation (see Dramatic Literature.) 2) conflict, tension, emotional intensity. 3) A representation of life improvised in dramatic activities or portrayed on a stage by actors before an audience.

Dramatic activities - Includes such activities as pantomime, creative movement, improvisation, creative drama, storytelling, choral speaking, story dramatization, story theatre, reader's theatre, role playing, theatre games, or puppetry.

Dramatic elements - Aristotle's dramatic elements have been adapted to include plot, character, theme/thought, language, sound, movement, spectacle, mood, and dynamics.

- o Plot - the structure of the action and the arrangement of incidents of a story or play.

- o Character - a person, animal, or entity in a story, scene, or play with specific distinguishing attributes.

- o Theme/thought - the central thought or main idea of a play.

- o Language - the dialogue that the characters speak.

- o Sound - anything perceived through the sense of hearing.

- o Movement - perceived through the sense of sight; basic characteristics of movement such as energy, time, space, and relationships.

- o Spectacle - includes all visual elements of a production.

- o Mood and dynamics - is the pervasive and compelling emotions aroused in the audience and creators alike by the manipulation and integration of all dramatic elements. See also Resources.

Dramatic literature/text Playscripts - The written script.

Dramatic play - Spontaneous free play in which children explore their universe, imitating the action and character traits of others for the purpose of finding meaning. Make-believe and fantasy may be part of the experience. Considered educationally valuable for the child as a natural way of exploring and expressing thoughts and feelings; often instructive to observing adults; for the child, it is play for the purpose of enjoyment; not intended for performance.

Dramatize - To turn a non-scripted piece into a theatrical event.

Eight basic elements - See Dramatic elements.

Elements of Visual Arts - Line, shape, color, space, form, value, and texture.

Elements of a story - Beginning, middle, end, conflict, resolution.

Ensemble - Acting that stresses the artistic unity of the performance rather than the individual routine of specific actors. The harmonious blending of the efforts of the many artists involved in a dramatic activity or theatrical production.

Environments - See setting

Evaluation - Analysis and appraisal of personal efforts, those of classmates and of theatrical performances.

Fantasy - The use of imagination to create strange, unusual, or non-realistic characters or settings.

Fine Arts - Aesthetic arts such as dance, theatre, visual art, music, photography, and architecture.

Flat - A wooden frame covered with canvas.

Floor plan - A working design indicating an exact outline of the setting on the floor.

Focus - The concept of guiding the attention of the players and audience to a particular place or person at a given moment.

Front of House Skills - Activities that take place in the front of house such as: ushering, ticket taking, ticket selling, house management, box office management.

Genre - A type or form of dramatic literature.

Gesture - Movements of the hand to communicate ideas, express emotions, or indicate direction; includes a variety of signs and signals.

Historical periods - Generally refers to those major eras in which significant theatrical contributions have been made (e.g., fifth century Greece, the Elizabethan era, the French neo-classic period, etc.)

House - The area of a theatre where the audience sits.

Improvisation - The spontaneous use of movement and speech to create a character or object in a particular situation.

Integration - The combination of interdisciplinary content under a common theme or concept. The use of learning in one discipline to enhance learning in the others.

Monologue - A dramatic work in the voice of one person.

Mood - The dominant atmosphere created by the integration of all dramatic elements of the activity or production.

Motivation - An actor's justification for doing or saying something.

Movement - 1) As a dramatic element, the movement of actors across the stage or any visual change in the stage picture. 2) In reference to actor training, use of the body for expression/characterization.

Non-realistic - Any physical or verbal action, scenery, costume, prop, makeup, lighting, or sound effect which departs from reality.

Objective - The desired goal of a character that motivates action.

Organizational Flowchart - A graphic organizer of the chain of responsibility for a typical production staff.

Pantomime - Action without words; non-verbal communication through body movement, gesture, and facial expression.

Performance - The imitation of life in front of at least one other person. In a broad sense, performance refers to the presentation of any kind of entertainment from play to rock concert, from solo presentation to ensemble collaboration.

Performance Diary - An actor's collection of thoughts, reflections, and discoveries during the production process.

Playwriting - The act of creating plot, theme, characters, and dialogue and organizing them in script form.

Production - The finished play, in performance.

Production management skills - The abilities involved with planning and carrying out the responsibilities of the production staff.

Production Staff - A team consisting of stage managers, assistant directors, business manager, costume managers, technical directors, makeup artists, and crew chiefs.

Projection - Increase of voice or actions so that they will carry to an audience.

Promptbook - A script in which all of the blocking and technical information is written.

Props - Properties; objects used by actors on stage (fan, wallet) or necessary to complete the set (furniture, plants, books)

Read through - Usually the first rehearsal; the company reading through the script out loud before blocking the play.

Realistic - Dramatic elements that combine to create the illusion of reality or life.

Rehearsal - Practicing in and preparing for a performance.

Role - The characteristic and expected social behavior of an individual in a given position (e.g., mother, employer). Role portrayal is more likely to be predictable, one-dimensional, and stereotypical than character portrayal.

Role playing - Enacting a person other than oneself in an improvisation based on a given dramatic situation.

Royalty - Payment to the author or his agent for permission to use his work.

Scenario - A detailed description or outline of the dramatic action in a scene or play.

Scene - The structural units into which the play or acts are divided.

Scenery/set - The arrangement of scenic elements (e.g. Curtains, flats, drops and platforms), properties, and lights to represent the locale in a dramatic production.

Script - The written dialogue, description, and stage directions provided by the playwright.

Scriptwriting - See playwriting.

Set - The physical and visual properties of a setting.

Setting - The time and place in which the dramatic action occurs.

Skit - A short scene, not part of a play.

Spontaneity - A free, direct, and immediate response to an experience.

Stagecraft - The variety of practical skills involved in mounting a production.

Stage Crew - Consists of the director, designers, and managers.

Stage Manager - Person responsible for technical operation of the play.

Stage Left - Area on the stage to the actor's left as he faces the audience.

Stage Right - Area on the stage to the actor's right as he faces the audience.

Strike - To take down and store the set after the final performance.

Structural Parts of a Script Exposition

- o Time and Place

- o Mood and Atmosphere

 - o Preliminary Situation Plot

- o Initial Incident

- o Rising Action = obstacle(s) and complication(s)

- o Climax

- o Falling Action

- o Denouement

Style - The characteristic manner of speaking, writing, designing, performing, or directing. Style is a relative term that encompasses literary movements (e.g. Romanticism, realism, naturalism); the method of individual playwrights or anything that displays unique, definable properties in construction or execution. Stylized usually means anything that deviates from whatever is considered realistic at a given time. It is possible to have both a dramatic style (provided by the playwright) and a theatrical style (provided by the director and collaborators).

Synthesize - Using old ideas to create new ones; to generalize from given facts; to relate knowledge from several areas; to predict, draw conclusions.

Technical Elements - The physical and/or sensory aspects of a production such as: scenery, lights, props, sound, costumes, special effects, makeup, etc.

Text - The basis of dramatic activity and performance. Text can be a written script or agreed-upon structure and content (as in improvisational work or a theatrical piece that uses planned set or disparate components.)

Theatre games - Acting exercises that involve group agreement to the rules of the game and group interaction in pursuit of solving the dramatic problem; frequently used for warmup, motivation, and exploration of character and subtext.

Upstage - The acting area furthest away from the audience.

Voice - The physical creation of sound by a human. See vocal characteristics.
